Discover seven properties, 600 wines from Bordeaux, Tuscany, Marche, California, Douro, Alsace and Spirits (Cognac, Whiskies).

It is with great pleasure that I invite you to discover this 2016 Spring edition of VERT DE VIN magazine. For this issue I chose to explore European and American wine regions, and also to give a spotlight to certain spirits. It is the result of exhilarating trips and meetings!

So in the first part of the magazine you will discover beautiful wineries in Tuscany, Napa Valley, Tuscany and Bordeaux. In the second part you will discover Nicolas Frion, a great Chef from Bordeaux. Nicolas Frion, Chef of the famous restaurant Le Gabriel, created especially for VERT DE VIN a few recipes to pair with wines. This customized creation will tickle your taste buds !

In the third part you will find 500 wine tasting reports (Bordeaux, Alsace, Tuscany, Marche, California, Douro) and 100 Spirits (Cognac, Whiskies) :

Bordeaux is one of the largest and one of the most renowned wine regions in the world. We believe its reputation not only runs through the names of some very famous châteaux and exceptional winemakers but its wealth is also more complex, more diverse. In this magazine you will find presentations of some Bordeaux vineyards and 160 wine reviews.

California is one of my favorite american wine region. This state has a great diversity of terroir which is unfortunately often overlooked. There are a lot of different terroirs in the same valley that are no longer seen as a global appellation but that gain recognition step by step. In this section you will find articles presenting not only different terroirs of Napa Valley but also wines from Sonoma and Lodi.

Alsace is a great wine region adjoining the slopes of the Vosges. It produces mainly white wines of which some are among the most famous in the world. It also includes a small production of Crémant and red wine. In this magazine you will find a hundred white wine and sparkling wine reviews.

Tuscany is one of the largest and best Italian wine regions that offers tremendous diversity of property and soil types. Not only that, this Italian region offers a rather exceptional epicurean quality of life for which I bear certain affection. I have chosen to present 150 Chianti Classico wines and 50 other wines from Tuscany.

Douro wine region is growing in that it is easy to find great wine, delicious dining and offering all this at an excellent value for the money.

Marche is a coastal Italian wine of the Adriatic region. Historically it has produced mainly white wines, however in recent years we see red wines are appearing that are worth talking about. In this part of the magazine you will find mainly wine from the appellations Offida and Piceno / Piceno Superiore.

Cognac... what can I say about this great Spirit. It's one of the oldest and most famous spirits in the world and one of my favorite delicacies. In this magazine you will find 50 Cognac reviews, mainly XO, vintage and Hors d'Âge.

Enjoy the reading, savor the tastings and read with delicacy the Wine & Food pairing part.

MONTEVERRO

(George Weber)

Monteverro is a young winery founded in 2003 by Mr Georg Weber, German nationality. The property is located in Capalbio in Maremma (Tuscany), on the border of the Lazio region. This region was long, until the mid-twentieth century occupied by large agricultural grain fields.

Georg Weber's love for wine was born when he was a student while he was dripping for the first time a glass of fine Bordeaux. Since that day his passion for wine only grew up to bring it to the purchase of Monteverro.

In 2000 wishing to acquire property Georg Weber began looking for a vineyard. For three years visited many properties in Bordeaux, Napa Valley, Bolgherie or Australia but it's coming on holiday in Tuscany, on the border of Lazio G. Weber was in love at first sight for the place would become Monteverro.

In 2003, not wishing to rush without being sure to be able to produce great wines he asked leading international experts to study the soil of Monteverro. Satisfied with the results he proceeded with the purchase of this former farm of 50 hectares.

In 2004 he planted Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Petit Verdot; in 2005 Syrah and Grenache and finally Chardonnay in 2006 to reach a total of 16 hectares. Since, they've been planting, every two years roughly, to increase the Bordeaux grape varieties. Today the property has 50 hectares of Monteverro including 27 hectares of vineyards and 23 hectares of scrubland, buildings and trees.

«'Monte' means 'hill' and 'verro' means 'wild boar' in the local vernacular. Monteverro can therefore be translated as 'Boar Hill.' A popular local legend tells that in 1901 a young girl who wanted to celebrate Christmas dinner by adding meat to the soup of her family, went hunting with her father's gun. The naive girl wandered into the thick bush and killed a boar so huge and dangerous that even the bravest fighter friends of her father would have feared the boar. That feat was immortalized in the name of Monteverro.»

Focus on Matthieu Taunay, winemaker / oenologist of Monteverro

«We are using progressive farming methods but our practices are inspired by the organic farming (no insecticide, just copper and sulphur). Each action and decision here is made with care / for example the craftsman-winemaker understands the strengths, weaknesses, constraints, potential and needs of his vineyard. We work our vineyard little by little.

We harvest by hand in small crates 7kg then vinify by gravity. Each year we produce 5 labels (2 white, red 4) with a total of about 150,000 bottles of wine per year. The first produced vintage was the 2008. It was sold for the first time in 2011. We were already very happy with the result but we want to go further each year. It also produces about 1,000 bottles of olive oil a year.

What I like here is the terroir, the challenge to be part of nothing but to create a property, the love for this region and its potential and to the atmosphere within the team. It is a very cosmopolitan team. I am French, the owner is German, our winemaker is French and our team also includes Italian, German and a Swiss. Between us we worked on five continents.»

VertdeVin: What is the terroir of Monteverro?

M.T.: «It is located on a hill facing the sea (5km), so it benefits from marine influences. It is between 30 and 80 meters above sea level.

In summer in this part of Tuscany the winds can be very strong and hot. But at least they blow gently over Monteverro because we are located within a natural bay, it is protected.

It's always breezy here. Summer days bring us a refreshing sea breeze and on hot August nights, the winds are strong enough to bring the vines the refreshment they need.

Our soil consists of clays that slowly release water to fight against the heat, limestone and large rocks help with soil drainage. It's a nice virgin soil that was planted a few years ago. There were no grape vines here before we arrived but only cereals, olive groves and scrubland.

It is surrounded by a small natural wall made of red earth, boulders and surrounded by scrubland that allows us to naturally protect the vineyards but also to maintain good biodiversity. It is a mineral rich terrain, which is good for the vineyard.»

V.d.V.: What is recognizable about Monteverro wines in a blind tasting? What is your signature style?

M.T.: «In our wines are always a hint of scrubland; a reminder of the DNA of these wines, the terroir. This is something that is typical of this hill. Delicate saline finish is also still found in our wines. This is probably due to the sea wind.

The focus is on the work in the vineyard for wine is made primarily in the vineyard. We work on the length, complexity, but especially on the width of the wines. Deeper wines more marked by the terroir; cooler... Finally one makes a careful fine tuning of the details...»

V.d.V.: How would you describe Monteverro in a few words / adjectives?

M.T.: « Young (for the atmosphere and the owners), International (team), explosive / free and pioneering nature

(belief in something new, in the potential of this region.»

Side Anecdotes

One of the wines Monteverro is called 'Tinata'. It's one of the favorite wines of Mr Weber!

He gave it the name «Tinata» in honor of his mother, Christine. It's a passionate Syrah and was affectionately nicknamed «Tina». «Plus it really has traits like Ms. Weber! It is a wine that combines power and feminine sensuality.»

Thanks to the team of Monteverro for its warm welcome

IL CERCHIO

(George Weber)

Il Cerchio is a small family winery (9-hectares) founded in 1988 by Corinna Vicenzi and farmed organically. It is located outside the village of Capalbio, in the South of Tuscany, Maremma.

It currently Il Cerchio has 1,5 acres of olive groves, pastures, a small forest and 3 hectares of vines in production. Two additional hectares have been planted last year and, there will be no more after that because C. Vicenzi absolutely wants to continue to manage everything just with her son Beniamno. Currently the vineyard is planted with Vermentino, Ansonica, Sangiovese and Alicante. Each year the property produces about 16.000 bottles.

Focus on Corinna Vicenzi, owner-winemaker of Il Cerchio

"My father always taught me to taste / love good wine. I love this world of wine!"

I have not always had the idea, the desire to come here to work in a vineyard. The idea germinated gradually. Today I am passionate about what I do, as the winemaker. I put some of my heart in each of the wines I make.

Side anecdote

Maremma is a land of immigration which has succeeded on many nations (France, Spain, Etruscan ...) that each have their footprints marked this region. For example, about thirty kilometers from the property you can visit archaeological sites, historical vestiges retracing the presence of the Romans or Etruscans...

I have long lived in Milan. There I studied languages and I worked in an architectural studio where I met my husband. During the holidays we often went down to Capalbio (Maremma) especially for the lifestyle it offers. We quickly fell in love with this region to the point that we looked for a house with the goal of coming here to spend our retirement.

We quickly found a home in Capalbio but soon we sold it to acquire this property. Soon the idea and desire to take care of the vineyard that was present came about. I became passionate about the vines and the region little by little. Until 1992 I combined my work in Milan and maintaining the vineyard taking me back and forth to the vineyard. Initially there was only one hectare of vines and one hectare of olive trees. It was more round trips and it was hard to get to Milan and at the end of the primary school of my son we came here, I took care of the vineyard / property while my husband, he preferred to continue working in architecture. I improved my knowledge as a winemaker through readings, lectures and help / advice provided by the former owner as well as relating with friends like Matthieu Taunay (winemaker / oenologist Monteverro).

My son began graduate studies in audiovisual / cinema / TV. At first he followed his studies and came back down from time to time to help me during the busiest periods (grape harvest, winemaking ...) but after a few months he decided to quit school and come work full time at Il Cerchio. I will not hide the fact that I was very happy with his decision, but I did nothing to push him into it. I wanted it to be his decision and not mine."

VertdeVin: Where does the name "Il Cerchio" come from ?

Corinna Vicenzi: "Il Cerchio means 'circle' in Italian. It's the circle of nature. Nature is a circle and man is in the middle. The man must not seek to change, to change nature but he must learn to stay in his place. He must use nature, respect and adapt to it."

V.d.V.: What is recognizable in Il Cerchio wines in a blind tasting ?

C.V.: "These are typical wines, elegant and drinkable. These are wines where we have recognized the grape. Alicante, for example, is never hidden by wood. In all our wines there is never over-breeding. What one wants is the grape,

Another anecdote

One day Corinna Vicenzi was contacted by Bibendum, an australina impoter, who asked her to buy her wines tasted in New York. She was greatly surprised that such a request was made of her considering such a 'small production'.

"Our production is limited, it is a small winery but our wines have already been shipped to many countries such as Canada, Belgium, Japan, Australia and the United States."

the characteristics of the grape variety and terroir.

It is on land mostly composed of clay and a little sand. The influence of the sea which is less than 4 km has a beneficial effect on our vineyards."

V.d.V.: Why did you choose to manage the property by organic farming?

C.V.: "We made the choice to manage the vineyards according to the principles of organic agriculture upon it's creation and we obtained the certification in 1994. We made this choice by full conviction that respect for the environment, health of the consumer and the producer are significant health elements that we need to meet / maintain. This is the only way to sustain / protect our ecosystem."

Thanks to Corinna Vicenzi and her son Beniamino for their warm welcome.

COL D'ORCIA

A family property synonymous with quality and that is among the oldest in Montalcino

Col d'Orcia is one of the largest and oldest properties in Montalcino. It was created with the name "Fattoria di Sant'Angelo in Colle" more than 400 years ago (XVII century) on the southern part of the terroir of Montalcino by an old noble family from Siena. The property remained in the hands of this family until the nineteenth century and changed owners repeatedly. In 1958, following a family succession the heirs Léopodo Stefano Franceschi divided themselves the "Fattoria di Sant'Angelo in Colle" into two properties each with the obligation to rename their fields.

Col d'Orcia is one of the largest and oldest properties in Montalcino. The property remained in the hands of this family until the nineteenth century and changed owners Stefano Franceschi was assigned the south he renamed "Col d'Orcia". There he planted vines, olive trees and kept some of the forest. Today this former "Fattoria di Sant'Angelo in Colle" remains the current coat of arms of Col d'Orcia which was the coat of arms of the noble family, of very old plants Sangiovese (variety) as well as centuries-old buildings. In 1973 having no children and having reached an advanced age Franceschi S. decided to sell his property to the Count Alberto Marone Cinzano, a family member who owns Cinzano alcohols.

Count Alberto Marone Cinzano then launched a major renovation project of the buildings, production facilities, replanting and extension of the field so for it to look like the "Fattoria di Sant'Angelo in Colle" was in the past. Currently the property extends over 540 hectares of which 142 are planted with vines with the remainder used for various crops such as tobacco, wheat, cereals, olives (35 hectares) or occupied by forests (200 hectares).

repeatedly. In 1958, following a family succession the heirs Léopodo Stefano Franceschi divided themselves the "Fattoria di Sant'Angelo in Colle" into two properties each with the obligation to rename their fields.

"We have a very familiar atmosphere in Col d'Orcia! Despite the success of our wines and the size of the business we want to continue working in a family spirit. The team here is highly regarded and a big family is formed. All this allows us to keep an artisan profile, vigneron profile, farmer profile."

VertdeVin: Can you tell us about the vineyard of Col d'Orcia?

Nicola Giannetti, Marketing & Communication Manager: "It has a wonderful and unique terroir! Most of our vineyards are planted with Sangiovese. It has a Mediterranean climate with hot summers, light rains in spring and sometimes a little snow in winter. It is located on a hill with a beautiful southern exposure allowing to have good ripeness of grapes at an altitude of about 300 mètres. It is protected from different weather (hail ...) by Mount Amiata (1750mètres). The soils are poor in clay and rich in limestone.

Great attention is paid to the maturity of our grapes. Our harvest is entirely manual and is done by successive pickings. For example in 2015 we harvested with 65 people for three weeks.

Respect for nature is also a concept that is dear to us. We always brought and continuously continued to bring attention to the vineyard, its health and its biodiversity. There is fragmented management of our vineyard. In 2010 we decided to develop this policy by initiating the procedures for the certification of organic agriculture. Thus vintages 2010, 2011 and 2012 were 'Organic Conversion' and 2013 was our first certified organic vintage. We conducted this approach not only for vineyards but also for our other crops (cereals, olives, tobacco ...). It is in organic farming by conviction and not by market opportunity.

Our life, our mission is to protect our land because that is what we are, is our passion, our terroir and we were born here. We are winegrowers by passion and by love for this place, for the vine and wine. You can not make wine by greed."

Giuliano Dragoni, agronomist: "Apart from the terroir and the history other specifics characterizes this vineyard Col d'Orcia. The property has very old Sangiovese plants. To preserve this unique genetic heritage Col d'Orcia is partnered with the Universities of Florence and Pisa to study these very old Sangiovese clones. Today most of the Col d'Orcia vineyard is planted or replanted with these old clones, clones that come from 100 years ago. "75% of our production is made from Sangiovese from our own genetic heritage."

V.d.V.: Another feature of this property, is that you have, for ten years, planted Pinot Gris.

N.G. & G.D.: "Despite the fact that Montalcino is not the favorite place of this grape the Pinot Gris is very well acclimatized here. It gives good white wines marked by the terroir."

V.d.V.: Where does the name of the Tenuta Col d'Orcia come from ?

ver". The Orcia is a river that marks the southwestern border of the Brunello di Montalcino appellation. This location allows the property to benefit from an exceptional terroir:

The Val d'Orcia is a unique area that was classified in 2004 by UNESCO as a World Heritage Site."

V.d.V.: What is the signature wines of Col d'Orcia?

N.G.: "These are typical/racy wines, balanced and elegant. These are pleasant wines where Sangiovese is recognizable and put in value. The fruit is not masked by the wood."

I think what characterizes the wines of Col d'Orcia is the quality of Sangiovese, but also a beautiful matter, a beautiful harmony in mouth, freshness, elegance, good ripeness and tension in mouth. Commonly found slight spicy notes, fine pepper note on the nose. These are wines of Brunello di Montalcino made in a "traditional" style (grape varieties, blend, winemaking, ageing).

V.d.V.: Could you define / introduce the Tenuta Col d'Orcia in two or three words?

G.D.: "Tradition, unique terroir, biodiversity, history and respect for the land."

N.G.: "As for me I would add: uniqueness of the terroir; perfect land for the Sangiovese and respect / protect / sustainability of forests in our area."

Thanks to the Col d'Orcia team for the great hospitality.

J.C.C.

Side Anecdotes

Of the 540 hectares that make up the property thirty hectares are dedicated to cereals and tobacco growing. As well as visit the property you have the opportunity to buy authentic Italian pasta manufactured based on an old variety of wheat, Senatore Cappelli. This variety contributes a lot in maintaining healthy soils of the property. Thanks to that there is found in the ground 35 different polyphenols antioxidants whereas with «current» varieties we found only two.

What is especially «anecdotal» is the tobacco growing. Col d'Orcia also plans within a few years, to produce its own cigars.

Another anecdote is that the property has very old and majestic cypress trees. Upon the restoration of the property Count Alberto Marone Cinzano wanted to know the age of these trees. Finding no records and failing to determine the age he appealed to memories of the old villages. Through them he could determine that these very old cypress trees are over 200 years old.

JOSEPH PHELPS VINEYARDS

A pioneering Napa Valley vineyard born from the passion of a man

Joseph Phelps Vineyards is a Napa Valley winery created in 1973 by Joseph Phelps. Currently, the property has 475 acres of vineyards (192 hectares) of which 100 acres are located on the Sonoma Coast.

From Colorado, Joseph Phelps experienced the world of wine thanks to the parents of his college roommate who made him taste his first bottles of wine. From there was born in him a thirst for discovery, a collection of famous bottles and the beginning of a great passion which led him in 1973 to acquire a property in California. During these tastings he was particularly “impressed” by the wines of Bordeaux, the Rhône and Madeira.

In 1960 he discovered the Napa Valley thanks to the family business (Hensel Phelps Construction Company) which won a bid to build Souverain Winery. He took the opportunity to discover the wines of the region and fell in love with the Napa Valley. He began to search for property to create his own vineyard.

In 1973, after several years of research he found a former cattle ranch (Connolly Ranch) surrounded by 600 acres. He acquired this ranch and began a major project to renovate buildings, building a winery (cellars, fermenting room, reception room...) and planting vines. He managed for several years two businesses with his father's construction company and with the vineyards in Napa Valley. After five years like this and wanting to dedicate 100% to his passion he decided to sell the family construction business.

There were many potential buyers but he made the choice to sell the company to their employees. Today the company still exists and it's still named Hensel Phelps Construction Company.

Following this sale he moved to California and worked on the qualitative development of these wines. He was notably the first winemaker to produce a varietally labeled Syrah post-prohibition.

Having regular expansion opportunities he acquired other land allowing him to extend his planted vineyards to 375 acres.

In 1999, while in recently in search of a favorable terroir for Pinot Noir and Chardonnay he found while flying over, an ideal property in Sonoma. Seeing the potential of the terroir of this small area of 100 acres he acquired the property. He then launched into a vineyard restoration project and planted 80% Pinot Noir and 20% Chardonnay.

“The search ended when the perfect combination of climate, soil and location was found in Freestone, located in the Sonoma Coast AVA, a mere six miles from the Pacific Ocean.”

After the acquisition and until 2007 the wines of Sonoma vineyards were made at the property in Napa Valley. Wanting to optimize the work tools he built a winery on the domaine of Sonoma. The construction was carried out by his former family business, even if it is not customary for them to take on this kind of small project, it exceptionally agreed to take on the project.

Despite the death of Joseph Phelps April 15, 2015 at the age of 87, the property remains 100% family owned. He was in agreement with the words of Margrit Mondavi, “one of the great pioneers of Napa Valley... Together with Robert Mondavi and others at the time, they put their hands in the soil and their souls in wine”.

He had four children and eight grandchildren. Among them his son Bill and two of his grandchildren work at the winery. His other children, Leslie, Laurie and Lynn are board members. The property has become famous thanks to the quality of its wines and especially through the Cuvée Insignia. Since a few years ago the property also produced olive oil.

Side Anecdote

The father's construction company, was not simply a "small" family business. In fact the HPCC (Hensel Phelps Construction Company) is one of the largest building companies in the United State. It has participated in major national projects. Recently Hensel Phelps Construction Company has participated in the reconstruction of the Pentagon (Washington) after the attacks of Sept. 11, 2001.

More on the anecdote ; when Joseph Phelps worked in the family business he was commissioned to destroy a wooden bridge and then reconstruct a railway bridge near the city Annapolis, CA. At the sight of the over a century old wooden bridge and under its historic charm; Wishing to keep it, he requested permission to take it away and to not destroy it but to restore it.

Today this famous path-wooden-iron bridge, dear to his heart, is integrated / presented on his property in Napa Valley.

VertdeVin: If you had to describe the property of Joseph Phelps and atmosphere in a few words, what would you say?

Françoise Larum, Assitant manager: "I would say: family, loyalty, excellence, team spirit and respect for people and the land.

There is a strong family spirit here, for example when Walter Schug, the first winemaker in the Winery decided to go to create his own vineyard he was assisted by Joseph Phelps. Today the position of winemaker is occupied by a person (Ashley Hepworth) who began here as a trainee.

Joseph was a very generous and concerned neighbor. He worked hard in the charitable organizations. For example, he gave generously to hospitals, for research on childhood diseases or for hosting migrants."

V.d.V.: In your opinion what is the signature of Joseph Phelps Wines?

F. L.: "These are precise wines, 'clean', fresh, balanced and 'food friendly'."

For my part I would say that what characterizes the wines of this property is a beautiful feel in the mouth. They are well constructed, soft, precise and often with a beautiful acid frame as well as the 'sharpness/ clearness' of palate. Finally these wines are marked by their terroirs.

I especially enjoyed the Insignia Cuvée, Cabernet Sauvignon and Chardonnay.

Thanks to Françoise Larum and the Joseph Phelps Vineyards' team for their hospitality.

TOQUADE

A French madness in Napa Valley

Toquade is a wine created in 2006 by Christine Barbe.

Christine Barbe began in 1991 with studies in biochemistry. After her graduation she sought a graduate degree in the region where she was born: Bordeaux. Two paths were open then for her: the food agriculture or winemaking (oenology).

Well, she happened to go on "Oenology". As part of her studies and her thesis on "Enzyme maceration" she worked for one of the most famous winemakers in Bordeaux: Denis Dubourdieu. It was during this experience that her passion for wine and more specifically for Sauvignon Blanc was born.

Toquade, the fruit of a dream

Alongside her work for Coquerel Family Winery, this dynamic winemaker left in search of the perfect terroir for growing Sauvignon Blanc.

In 2005, after an extensive search she found a plot that matched her expectations. She found land with a good exposure protecting the vines from heatstroke, but also from the coolness of the nights in Napa valley. A parcel on which the sauvignon blanc could have its "feet in the water, head in the sun and enjoy the influences of a small river nearby."

So in 2006, after her project reached maturity, and after her rich experiences in Bordeaux (Chateau La Louviere, Chateau Carbonnieux) and California (including Gallo and Robert Mondavi) Christine realized her dream through creating her first vintage Toquade.

Where does the name and logo of Toquade come from?

Regarding the logo, Christine wanted graphics that could recall the ellipse formed by the wine at the time of pouring. Accompanied by a designer friend they took a white sheet and attempted to draw an ellipse and so the current logo was born.

Regarding the name “Toquade” it finds its origin in the idea of the process of making wine. In fact, the idea of a French woman recently landed in Napa Valley to make a completely atypical Sauvignon Blanc for this region (in the sense that during the tasting we would think it came from New Zealand or from Pessac-Leognan). Moreover with little money and work in parallel... You must admit that this is madness! But what a delightful madness!

VertdeVin: What is recognizable about Toquade wines in a blind tasting? What is your signature style?

Christine Barbe: “Toquade is a Californian Sauvignon Blanc with a French taste. Toquade comes from single vineyard in Yountville Napa Valley with an ideal micro-climate to grow Sauvignon blanc. The land near the Napa River provides an especially excellent terroir to showcase the distinct flavor of Sauvignon blanc. Toquade is harvested earlier than others Sauvignon blanc in Napa Valley which gives it a nice crisp pallet. The wine is produced with a complete oxygen protection from the vineyard to the bottle to maintain the flavor inherent of Sauvignon blanc (guava, grape fruit).”

V.d.V.: How would you describe your passion for wine in a few words ?

C.B.: “My passion is my creative journey. It is my art.”

Side project

Christine Barde will, within a few years, produce a red wine from Petit Syrah... It is just an opportunity to find a good location... and also time for this passionate multitasking. In the long term the “dream” is to increase her production at the same quality level.

Thanks to Christine Barde for the hospitality.

Side Anecdote : Wild wine and music pairing...

Thanks to Christine’s husband you will be able to enjoy a good glass of wine while listening to music specially composed for this moment of complete pleasure and relaxation. This song is available on the Vertdevin website and on the Toquade website. The pairing of wine and music is something that we see more and more frequently, but what is unique here is that it comes from the property.

DUCKHORN VINEYARDS

Duckhorn Vineyards is a winery in Napa Valley founded by Dan and Margaret Duckhorn in 1976. It was after visiting the Bordeaux vineyards (Saint-Emilion, Pomerol) in the 1970s that this couple of wine lovers decided to create a property in California with only the Bordeaux varietals. This trip also created a passion for Merlot.

Once back in California they would create the vineyard of Duckhorn. They planted mostly Merlot. They focused on the development of 100% Merlot which made them pioneers of 100% Merlot wine in Napa Valley. This and Cabernet Sauvignon were the first two vines planted by Dan and Margaret Duckhorn. These two varieties have become the specialties of the property. The first vintage produced was the Duckhorn 1978 with 800 cases and 800 cases of Merlot Cabernet Sauvignon. In 1982 the property produced its first white wine (Sauvignon Blanc). In 1988 Mr and Mrs Duckhorn bought several Napa Valley vineyards to ensure the supply of good quality grapes in different soils in Napa Valley. Thus gradually the property grew acquiring new vineyards in Napa valley (Howell Mountain, Yountville, St. Helena ...) but also in Sonoma. Today Duckhorn Vineyards has six brands (Duckhorn Vineyards, Paraduxx, Goldeneye, Migration, Canvasback and Decoy) and produces more than 80,000 cases (480,000 bottles) per year. The wines are being sold in the United States and in over twenty countries.

"I liked the softness, the seductiveness, the color... the fact that it went with a lot of different foods; it wasn't so bold, didn't need to age so long, and it had this velvety texture to it. It seemed to me to be a wonderful wine to just enjoy. I became enchanted with Merlot."

(Dan Duckhorn)

Duckhorn Vineyards produces many wines that make it world renowned, the most famous of them is the Cuvée “The Discussion”.

The discussion is a premium wine created for the first time in 2006. It is produced from the finest grapes from six vineyards in Napa Valley. It is the result of a blend of Cabernet Sauvignon (mostly), Merlot, Cabernet Franc and Petit Verdot.

“Proud of this wine we want to continue to produce it by going even further in the search for quality. We produce it only when the quality of the vintage allows. Currently we are basically in our fifth vintage.”

(Belinda Weber)

The wines produced in Napa Valley by Duckhorn Vineyards are fruity complex blends of more than 200 lots of wine from 6 vineyards but also of great work on the barrel. Duckhorn Vineyard work with thirteen different coopers, 25 different varieties of oak and four different types of heaters. All this allows them to obtain their consistent qualities, a nice diversity in their range and complexity.

Side Anecdote

The Duckhorn team is very proud to know that their Sauvignon Blanc 2014 and the 2008 Reserve were served to Barack Obama during an official dinner at the White House.

VertdeVin: If you have to describe the Duckhorn property in a few words, what would you say?

Belinda Weber, Director, Digital Trade & Consumer Marketing : “Authentic, high quality and memorable”

V.d.V.: What can recognize Duckhorn wine tasting?

B.W.: “These are balanced wines, precisely focused and offers a lovely purity of fruit. They do not have a high alcohol. These are wines that are undoubtedly more elegant and perhaps less powerful than other wines of the Napa Valley. Our wines reflect the terroir, the places from where they originate.

As for the white wines we are specialists in Sauvignon Blanc.

At Duckhorn we believe that great wines always begin in the vineyard. The terroir, the fruit quality and breeding work are put into practice here. We are trying to better understand the specificities and needs of our different soils and microclimates. We have a piecemeal approach, an artisanal approach.

The seven estate vineyards allow us to benefit from different profiles of wine and grapes for the elaboration of our wines, giving their complexity.”

Focus on Renee Ary, oenologist Duckhorn Vineyards

In 2014 Renee Ary became the fourth oenologist Duckhorn. This talented woman began her career in the early 2000s at Robert Mondavi Winery in 2003 and then joined the team of Mark Beringer at Duckhorn. In 11-years career at the property she went through all positions and in 2014 was named “winemaker” Duckhorn.

“It’s important to approach a role like this with humility... and with the knowledge that I am a part of an ongoing story—that I am contributing to the legacy of a great winery, and building on the work of the talented people who laid the foundation for excellence.” (Renee Ary, winemaker of Duckhorn)

As for me I would say it is harmonious wine, nicely sweet, ‘net / accurate’ (clean), complex and which offers good terms and juicy fruits. The contributions of the barrel are always well mastered.

V.d.V.: Do you have plans for Duckhorn Winery?

“Yes we have. We just just bought ‘Three Palms Vineyards’ and would like to pull some vines and replant. It is a lovely land with good potential.

We would also like to produce a second vintage of our natural Chardonnay.”

Thanks to Belinda Weber for his warm welcome.

CHÂTEAU HAUT PEYROUS

The renaissance of a family owned Graves vineyard

Château Haut Peyrous is a vineyard of 12 hectares of AOC Graves, that is close to Langon and more specifically in the town of Mazères. It is currently owned by Celine and Fabian Goulard.

Native of Soissons in Picardy this couple didn't come to the Region of Bordeaux to work in the wine industry but for the climate and their old jobs. Indeed before being a winemaker somewhere else and in parallel ownership Fabian Goulard manages a company specialized in trading industrial solutions (pipes) and Celine Goulard in consulting entrepreneurship. During the first years of their lives in the area they discovered the world of wine and especially the wines of Graves. Within 2 or 3 years the 'virus' of wine and viticulture overtook them....Today they masterfully manage a property that reveals its self over time.

Focus on Celine and Fabian Goulard, owner of Chateau Haut Peyrous :

"Like many people outside Aquitaine we did not know the area before coming. Which is a shame because this is one of the oldest areas in Bordeaux. The name has a big recognition problem... It is better known internationally than in France, however there is a great potential for this appellation."

"I like the profile of our wines. The important thing in this business is to see how far we can go for nice products / great wines. We're in the process of finding out. For us having seen the potential in this, we saw the opportunity to do great things. We try to think 'outside the box'; make great wines; homogeneous wines. This is starting to bear fruit, for example in the most recent Futures we got good reviews/ranks."

"We came to this property thanks to our other activities. We had to get out of our first house where we ran our old business. My wife and I grew up in the countryside. We did not want to be working in a business neighborhood. So we started looking for another activity, and naturally we thought to buy a vineyard. On the advice of some people and following our intuition that the Graves wine appellation was promising we were looking for a vineyard and finally found the Château Haut Peyrous. Another important criteria weighed in the decision, that related to our children which was living as close to the countryside and to the city as well. Finally in September 2012, after a year and a half of reflection and three visits we finally acquired it. What is funny is that my wife and I are more prone to reds but we bought Château Haut Peyrous after a tasting of white wines. They had something different that we really liked."

"When we bought the property there were three vintages in stock but we have kept one, the 2011. The goal is to compare it qualitatively with the vintage 2012. This vintage was also the first produced on our newly acquired property."

"Today they have taken a step forward from the vine to the vinification by the consultant oenologist Hubert de Bouïard and his team."

"This is someone who lives the project with us at a high level of sensitivity, it is very important to the vine because as he said 'before being passionate about the wine one must be so for the vine' (Hubert Bouïard). We must lead the vineyard throughout the year while having the vision of wine. The opposite would be comparable to an orchestra where everyone plays his part without regard to the other or the final performance."

VertdeVin: Where does the name of Château Haut Peyrous comes from?

Fabian Goulard: "Initially the property was called the Chateau La Tuileries Peyrous. 'Peyrous' means 'locality' and 'La Tuileries' is explained by the fact that at the bottom of the forest on the property there was a river named 'Tuileries'. When the property was purchased by Fabien Goulard, he changed its name to 'Château Haut Peyrous.'"

V.d.V.: What is recognizable about the wines of Château Haut Peyrous in a tasting?

F.B.: "As for white wines, the wines of Château Haut Peyrous have a lot of freshness, minerality and expresses notes of exotic fruits. They also have a mild citrus acidity which is slightly present. They are also recognized thanks to their brightness that one can find in the Semillon."

For the red we are in the process of creating ourselves. We must make ourselves known. We do not have a beautiful building so it's our wines that are to create our reputation. Since 2013 we have been helped by Hubert de Bouïard. With his assistance we make a range of wine that is fruity. The common thread among all our wines is the fruit. We do not want to present wines that are too heavily oaked, but make the fruit the dominating factor. We want a red wine with notes of red fruits and other notes of black fruits.

Aging is like a bride, wine is the groom and the barrel is the dress. Everything must work together to make the dream come true. One without the other will not dream. If the vine produces a nice juice we will then have a nice material. The barrel brings the dress, the structure, tannins and participates in color. Under no circumstances should one feel the wood before the fruit from the vine.

I try to make wine fun, communion, marriage... and no wine technicians. Wines that provide joy. The consumer is behind his glass and he did not analyze it for 2 hours. He drinks and says if he likes it or not."

Side project:

F.B.: "We have the tools, now we need to make it pleasant. The project is to

Side anecdote

The labels of the property were designed to remember two things. The first is a drop of wine in the wine, the dissemination of this drop into the liquid. The second is reminiscent of smoke coming out of the bottle when placed horizontally.

make a new vat. We are in the process of restructuring the vineyard. Currently we have about 20% to restructure. The big issue now is whether to produce white at the expense of red wine. I also plan to plant Malbec on a one hectare plot.

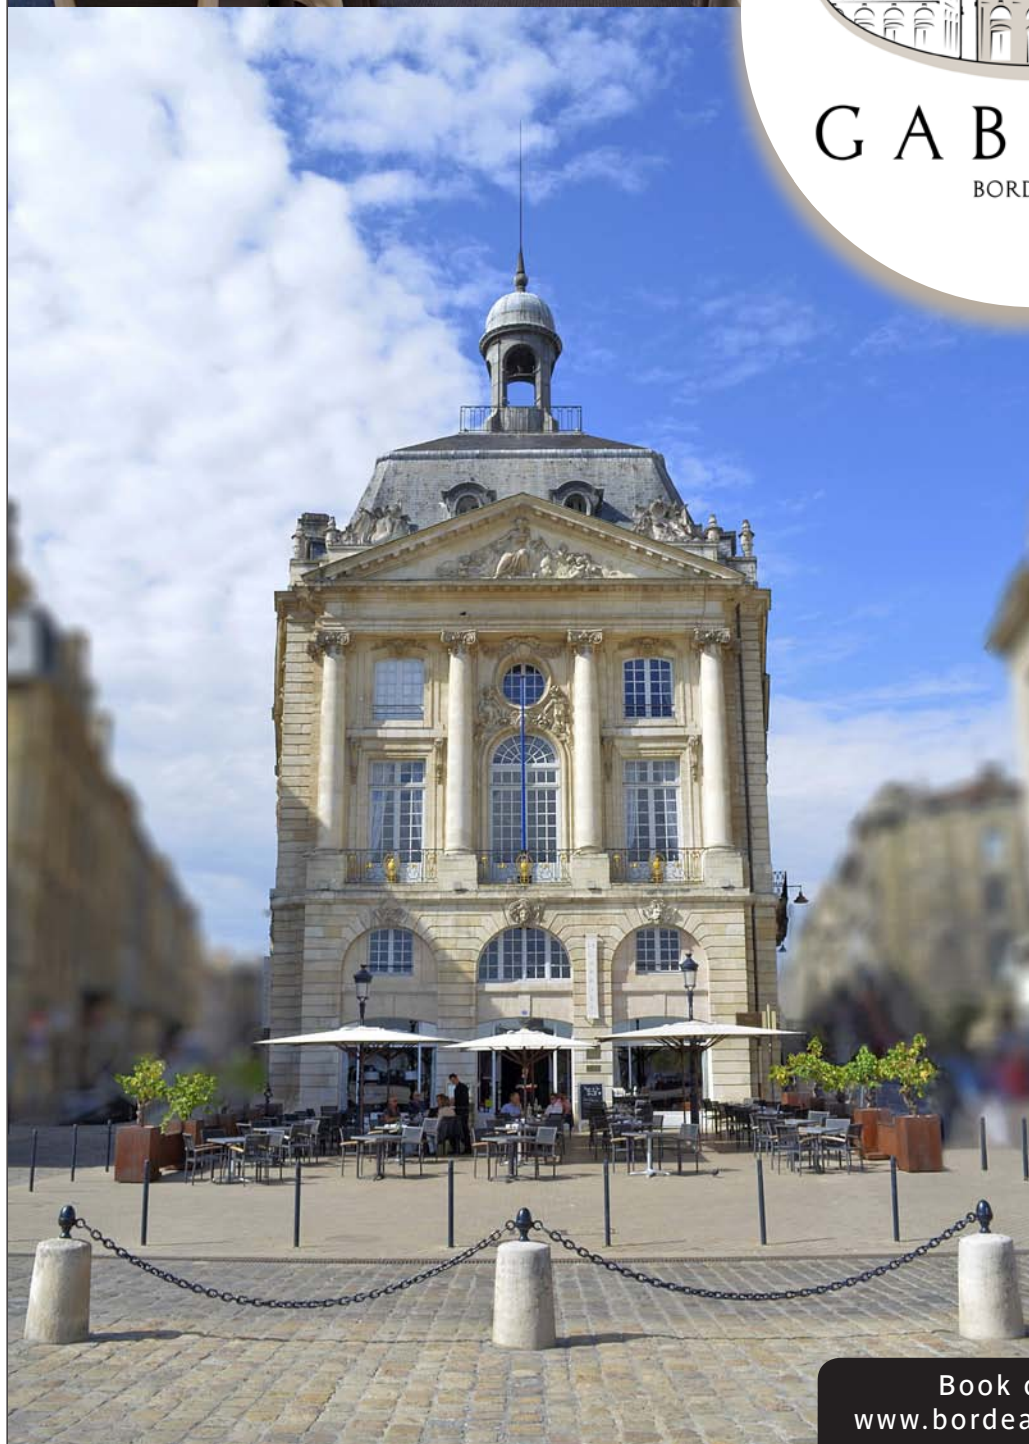

We are also in the process of making a big batch of white and red limited edition. It would still be wines for pleasure but the difference with the great wines will be the vineyard. We would like to test by leading it differently."

*Thanks to Fabian Goulard for the warm hospitality.

GUY LARMANDIER

« L'essence de Cramant »

La Maison Guy Larmandier compte 9 ha qui permettent une production de 90 000 bouteilles de champagne. Toutes sont élaborées à partir de raisins issus de la propriété. Ainsi Madame Guy Larmandier associée à ses enfants, François et Marie-Hélène proposent des Champagnes qui gardent leur caractère et leur authenticité.

Par cette cuvée « Signé François », François Larmandier exprime son talent. Il rend un vibrant hommage à son père Guy qui lui a transmis son amour du vin, sa passion et son savoir-faire. La quintessence de cette cuvée Grand Cru de Cramant, 2007 éveille un subtil nez de chèvrefeuille et de nectarine, re-joint par un palais richement texturé et une élégante finition presque éthérée.

GUY LARMANDIER

La Maison Guy Larmandier compte 9 ha qui permettent une production de 90 000 bouteilles de champagne. Toutes sont élaborées à partir de raisins issus de la propriété. Ainsi Madame Guy Larmandier associée à ses enfants, François et Marie-Hélène proposent des Champagnes qui gardent leur caractère et leur authenticité.

Par cette cuvée « Signé François », François Larmandier exprime son talent. Il rend un vibrant hommage à son père Guy qui lui a transmis son amour du vin, sa passion et son savoir-faire. La quintessence de cette cuvée Grand Cru de Cramant, 2007 éveille un subtil nez de chèvrefeuille et de nectarine, re-joint par un palais richement texturé et une élégante finition presque éthérée.

The Guy Larmandier House has 9 ha that enable production of 90 000 bottles of champagne. All are made from grapes of the property. Mrs Guy Larmandier associated with his children, Francis and Marie-Hélène offer Champagnes that keep their character and authenticity.

For this cuvée « Signed François », François Larmandier expresses his talent. He pays homage to his father Guy who transmitted his love of wine, passion and expertise. The quintessence of this Grand Cru Cramant vintage 2007 awake a subtle nose of honeysuckle and nectarine, re-joined by a richly textured palate and an elegant finish almost ethereal.
