“Let’s not forget that what we call Terroir is the marvelous combination of the soil, the weather and men”

Lucas Leclercq - Technical Director at Lafon Rochet

Discover seven properties from Oregon, from Champagne, 550 wine reviews from France (Bordeaux, Champagne, Bourgogne, Rhône, Provence), Portugal (Porto), United-States (Oregon, California, Washington), New Zealand and Spirits (Armagnac).

It is with great pleasure that I invite you to discover this 2016 Summer edition of VERTDEVIN magazine. For this issue I chose to put a spotlight on Oregon wines and Champagne. It is the result of exhilarating trips, tastings, discoveries and meetings!

So in the first part of the magazine you will discover beautiful wineries in Oregon and Champagne. In the second part you will discover Nicolas Frion, a great and promising Chef from Bordeaux. He is the Chef of the famous restaurant Le Gabriel. N. Frion created especially for VERTDEVIN a few recipes to pair with wines. These customized creations will tickle your taste buds !

In the third part I invite you to discover and savor a few great wines and good values. In the fourth part you will find 600 wine reviews and 50 Armagnac tasting reports :

Bordeaux is one of the largest and one of the most renowned wine regions in the world. We believe its reputation not only runs through the names of some very famous châteaux and exceptional winemakers but its wealth is also more complex, more diverse. In this magazine you will find presentations of some Bordeaux vineyards and 160 wine reviews.

Oregon is one of my favorite american wine regions. This state has a great diversity of terroir which is unfortunately often overlooked. There are a lot of different terroirs in the same region that gain recognition step by step. In this section you will find articles presenting not only wines of the Willamette Valley but also wines from the Columbia Valley and the Southern Oregon.

Champagne is a product synonymous with festivity, sharing, gastronomy and terroir. It is a unique wine, both in quality and in terms of notoriety. This product has a special place in my heart that can be summarized by the famous quote of Napoleon Bonaparte «I drink Champagne when I win, to celebrate... And I drink Champagne when I lose, to console myself.»

Bourgogne white wines are world renowned. We make some of the best white wines of the world in this region. So how can we resist the temptation to discover, explore and taste the incredible diversity of Bourgogne white wines

Porto is an emotional choice. It is easy to find a great, delicious port wine «gourmandise « at a good value. For the anecdote, Porto is the world's third-oldest wine controlled appellation and the first one for the fortified wines.

Armagnac is also an emotional choice but also a choice because of the soil, the quality of life as well as the great traditional and historical heritage.

Don't forget that Armagnac is the oldest Eau-de-vie distilled in the world. An Eau-de-vie that despite centuries of production, a beautiful diversity of style, terroir and properties is still relatively unknown.

Enjoy the reading, savor the tastings, take advantage of the new part and read with delicacy the Wine & Food pairing part.

BRIGADOON WINE COMPANY

A young and promising winery of the Willamette Valley

Brigadoon Wine Company is a young property founded in 2008 by the Shown family. It is located in a wooded canyon, deep in the southern Willamette Valley, northwest of Eugene.

The property extends over 66 acres of which 15 are planted with vines. The rest of the area is occupied by a Christmas tree plantation, a sheep farm, forest, an orchard and a large vegetable garden.

The vineyard is planted mainly with Pinot Noir but also with Riesling, Pinot Blanc as well as a nursery (trees and vines). By conviction Brigadoon Vineyards will always be operated by sustainable agriculture practices by Chris Shown, his wife (Sheree) and his two children (Matt and Nick).

VertdeVin: Where does the name of Brigadoon Wine Company come from?

Chris Shown : "This is the name of a 1947 musical, a film released in 1954 and a 1996 album of which we are fans."

Brigadoon is a beautiful love story between an American and a young Scottish woman. The young man arrived in Scotland to hunt. During his stay he falls in love with a girl from the village of Brigadoon, a village lost in the countryside. However she could not go with him to the United States or she risked seeing the town disappear for mystical reasons...

V.d.V.: What allows one to recognize the wines of Brigadoon Wine Co. in blind tasting ?

C.S.: "All our wines have a nice texture and matter. We work a lot on it. I am looking to have a perfect balance, a bright acidity and good structure. Our wines are often recognized thanks to the quality of the structure, whatever the vintage. They should be based primarily on the fruit. It makes wines that we like and we like dry wines!

We want to make wines that express all the characteristics of their vines, their vintages and reflect their terroir. It is there to guide the vine / wine, not for them to say or do anything different than their nature."

V.d.V.: Could you talk about the terroir and the vineyard of Brigadoon?

"It is a beautiful terroir, with great potential. It is composed by Bellpine, Jory and also some clay. These are well drained soils and rocky with some silty clays. These are fertile soils. It is in the foothills. It is located at an altitude of 400/600 feet which gives us a freshness that most wineries in the area do not. This allows us also to harvest between 3 and 10 days after the others. These additional days allow the vine to continue the physiological development of fruit flavors and therefore without increasing the sugar level (and therefore alcohol). This microclimate allows a slower development of the berries. We work in sustainable agriculture to protect and perpetuate this wonderful terroir, land and its balance."

V.d.V.: Could you talk about the terroir and the vineyard of Brigadoon?

M. & C.S.: "I'd say it's a beautiful drink, nice, enjoyable and friendly"

Anecdote side

Chris: "Here we absolutely do everything by ourselves, while family, from vine to wine production all through bottling. We are all engaged in Brigadoon, me, my two children and my wife. My wife Sheree is a very good chef. She works a lot on food pairings and wines."

V.d.V.: Do you have a specific project to Brigadoon Wine Co. ?

M. & C.S.: "As you can see we like to welcome people, we would like that to continue. We are currently producing 15,000 bottles a year; but eventually we will produce 55,000. However, it is already very tight in our buildings, we can not increase our production without constructing a new building. This is our medium / short term project.”

Shown thank the family for their warm and friendly welcome.

Focus on Chris and Matt Shown, coowners of Brigadoon Wine Co.

Chris: “My family is of British origin. I started my career in viticulture in 1970 in Napa Valley, I helped my father to work the vineyard. I’ve always been a farmer, it’s my passion! In 1988 when the property was sold I left for retirement but the virus of the vine quickly caught up with me. So we looked for a place to create a vineyard and we arrived here. This is a remote place, no road but a beautiful place. There are superb terroirs to work and the Willamette Valley offers a unique lifestyle.”

Matt: “I was soon fascinated by wine and winemaking. I went with my father and I attended to the various works of the vineyard and the winery since my childhood. After horticultural studies, my other passion, I started working for different vineyards in New Zealand and Oregon. In 2008 when my family embarked on the creation of Brigadoon it is natural that I join the project. Today even if I work for another property I spend most of my time here because I fell in love with this place, this beautiful part of life.”

DEL RIO VINEYARDS

A property steeped in history, where wine is synonymous with expertise and locale.

Del Rio Vineyards is a family property located in the Rogue Valley in the Southern Oregon. The vineyard was established in 1997 by Lee and Margaret Traynham, two Californians from a long line of farmers. Before their arrival the property had been producing fruit for over 100 years.

VertdeVin: Where does the name of Del Rio Vineyards come from?

Aurélien Labrosse: “We inherited this name by way of redemption. When the owners acquired this area was an orchard that had been cultivated for over 100 years. We turned it into vineyards.”

©Del Rio

V.d.V.: Why did you choose to come in the Rogue Valley to make wines ?

A.L.: “To be part of the developing young region in Southern Oregon was an attractive challenge which finally led me to join the Del Rio family. Our vineyard is unique. It is surrounded by majestic mountains and our site allows us to produce grapes of high quality. Here there is an ideal microclimate for grapes! There are truly beautiful soils. The grapes we harvest and the wines we produce are racy. They express the identity of the Rogue Valley.

The estate was originally created by John B. White in the 1850s. Initially a small community, it quickly evolved into a small town with a post office, a hotel, a telegraph station, a school and even the railway. As the village grew the property also grew. The main architect of this growth was K. F. Deuel who bought the hotel in 1907. Rock Point Hotel fell into disuse as did the land. He planted fruit trees and quickly turned the small family owned orchard into an orchard of 800 acres (pears, apples, cherries, apricots, peaches, hazelnuts, walnuts...). They renamed the property Del Rio Orchards. The 1920's were prosperous but short. Indeed the Depression and World War II were difficult times for the family estate who fought tirelessly to keep from falling into bankruptcy. In 1997 Lee and Margaret Traynham made the acquisition of Del Rio Orchard and Hotel. They then launched into a great restoration / renovation of the hotel, Resurrection of the land and transformation of the orchard into a vineyard. Del Rio today covers 300 acres of vineyards. Del Rio annually produces 300,000 bottles of wine and grapes are sold to more than twenty wineries from Oregon and California.

Since 2012 I chose to dedicate myself to producing wines reflecting our land and richness. I firmly believe in wine as a product bringing pleasure in a simple, user-friendly experience and to share the beautiful moments of life.”

Can you briefly describe what is the wine to you?

A.L.: “Wine is a product that is really related to my identity. Wine is also strongly linked to another of my passions, food / cooking. This is more than a drink, there is something substantial in wine. The wine is birthed from a

The domaine of Del Rio was founded by John B. White at the end of 1850. At first it was a small and young community named Rock Point. J.B. White fought alongside Captain William A. Wilkinson during the Indian Wars of 1855/1856. In appreciation of his services he received lands. A few years later he became the first judge of Rock Point and opened the first post office.

Focus on Aurélien Labrosse, assistant winemaker at Del Rio Vineyards

“I grew up in the South of Burgundy surrounded by green pastures. My mother instilled in me a love for cooking and gastronomy. Small, we often used our family _ products from the garden for cooking. I always enjoyed being part of the transformation process: select, cut, cook / bake and pair.

I started studying and was soon employed in the marketing of wine But soon I was attracted to the vineyard. I made my first vintage in Burgundy, which convinced me to devote myself entirely to the production of wine and not its simple marketing. I passed and got a degree in oenology and viticulture Blanquefort (Bordeaux). Afterwards I went to work in vineyards abroad (Chile, Israel, United States...) but also in France (Burgundy, Bordeaux). Each trip allowed me to gain experience, to learn and see different approaches to wine. In 2012 I went to work in Oregon believing that the region can produce fine wines. Today I am happy to work in this region and at Del Rio. There is a very good lifestyle here. What I like here is that it has less restrictions than in other wine regions of the world. There is more freedom to innovate.

The person and his/her well being is taken into consideration. There is a sense of family, a team” long, natural and complex process that originates in the vineyard and in the environment of the plant. The equation between the freshness, elegance, depth and expression of terroir is what matters to me. As in all equations each element plays an important role to achieve the final balance.”

What allows you to recognize Del Rio Vineyards wines in a blind tasting? What is your signature?

A.L.:“Freshness and elegance are key components that we focus on. Following the same idea, we keep our alcohol content reasonable to keep this freshness and accessibility. Much in the nose and mouth we want to feel, drain the fruit, feel the aromas linked to the grape whose wine is made.

Jean-Michel Jussiaume (the winemaker) and I are both French vintners from cool climate regions (Loire and Burgundy). For us the acidity is important. It is the backbone of white wines and freshness of red wines. Finally, we work with oak barrels, but we use them as a complementary element to the aromas of the wine and not as a base. This means that if you experience flavors of oak / wood in our wine it is likely that this will be just a touch providing additional aromatic layer. The barrel should be used only to bring complexity to come around the fruit and ultimately to improve the quality of the wine.”

Do you have specific plans for Del Rio Vineyards?

A.L.:“Del Rio continues to grow and change. This spring, we simply planted an additional 100 acres of vines bringing the vineyard to 300 acres. With our new plantings of Pinot Noir, Pinot Gris and we are very happy with the growth and development of our range and our brand.”

Thanks to Aurélien for his warm and friendly welcome.

IRIS VINEYARD

A property of the Willamette Valley where wine, gastronomy and epicurean are one!

Iris Vineyard is a young family estate in the Willamette Valley. It was founded in 1996 by a couple of enthusiasts and connoisseurs, Richard Boyles and Pamela Frye. When acquiring it there were no vines on the estate. Richard and Pamela therefore embarked on the great works of clearing and planting. In addition to the vineyards, they planted an orchard and hundreds of trees.

Currently the property is involved farming. It extends over 70 acres including 40 acres planted with vines. Each year the property produces 10,500 cases of wine with the bulk it in Pinot Noir, Pinot Gris, Chardonnay, Syrah...

In 2013 the property was closed to the public in order to carry out work. Late summer 2015, after more than two years of work Iris Vineyard opened to the public.

VertdeVin: Where does the name of Iris Winery come from?

Richard Boyles: “There are several reasons for this name. This is a pun between the iris of the eye and the flower here. There were plenty in the field when it was acquired. We also have an area of 800 acres named Chalice Vineyard. It is located on Iris Hill.”

V.d.V.: Why did you choose to make wine here?

R.B.: “When we started looking for a site we came here because my wife Pamela grew up in this region. So we came in the beginning for personal reasons but we quickly realized that the soil and the terroir were very good. They are particularly well suited to Pinot Noir. It is complex. Our soil is composed of Billpine, rock, volcanic soil and compost.

We are fortunate also to be subject to a microclimate particularly suited to viticulture and the fruit culture.

Side Anecdote

The state of Oregon is not only known for its wines, Christmas trees and its splendid landscapes but also for being a great producer of truffles.

Each year Iris Vineyard organizes «truffle immersion parties.» During the evenings the property offers a cooking demonstration truffles. The final evening ends around a large cooked meal based on this famous mushroom and wine pairings leading to discovery, epicurean and awakening of the senses!

This is a beautiful area in which to live, with the natural landscape and offers a nice living environment.”

As for me I would say it is harmonious wine, nicely sweet, ‘net / accurate’ (clean), complex and which offers good terms and juicy fruits. The contributions of the barrel are always well mastered.

V.d.V.: What allows one to recognize Iris Vineyard wines in a blind tasting?

“These are intense wines. There are often notes of flowers. This is probably due to our microclimate. They often have a mineral structure.

We try to make the most expressive wines possible and that resemble their land, their soil and climate. These are wines of a beautiful youth.

We harvest our Chardonnay grapes later than the others, in November, so they have a little botrytis. Each of our wines has its own expression.

I try above all to produce the best grapes that I can. The wine is done primarily on the vine!”

V.d.V.: Do you have any plans for Iris Vineyards?

“Yes. We would first keep growing, to produce more. Short term we would also like to produce a sparkling wine from Pinot Meunier. We would produce after the Méthode Champenoise. We also have plans to make a rosé. Currently we are going to acquire new land.”

Focus on Richard Boyles, owner Iris Vineyards

My passion for wine comes from my paternal grandmother. It was born from my childhood when I accompanied her when I was little to help make wine. She vinified grapes which she cultivated at her home on the banks of the Umpqua River in Roseburg (Oregon).

I learned to make wine with it from the age of 7/8 years. I am fascinated by the fact of transforming grapes and metamorphosing them into something else. Each wine and each vintage is different.

I am also passionate about cooking. It’s a bit the same way. Starting from a raw product and by various operations it is magnified. It is therefore natural that I also have a great interest in Food & Wine pairings. My father who was a good cook had fun doing dishes that pair with the wines made by my grandmother for our family meals.

I met my wife Pamela at the University of Oregon. There she discovered a strong interest in food and wine. It has brought us closer. Together we visited several wineries in the Willamette Valley and the state of Washington.

The wine was my passion but I started my working life in a job in the field of electronics. With this position we had the chance to travel to Europe. We took advantage of this wonderful opportunity to visit many wine regions in France, Germany and Switzerland.

After several years in Europe we returned home to Oregon. Occupational retraining was then started creating our own vineyard to live our passion. We have also created a large garden to cook our own vegetables. Self-sufficiency and eating / living well are concepts that we hold dear. Good wines and good foods are great pleasures of life.

Thanks to Richard Boyles for its warm welcome

MARCHESI WINERY

A little piece of Italy in the heart of Oregon

Marchesi Winery is a young property founded in 2004 by Franco Marchesi. It is located in Columbia Valley (Oregon) and more specifically in the area of Mount Hood. In addition to being recognized as the specialist Italian varietals in Oregon it offers, between gastronomy, wine, decor and atmosphere delicious Mediterranean parenthesis to these visitors. Currently the property covers 5 acres and produced white wines and red wines.

VertdeVin: Why did you choose to create a vineyard in Oregon and more precisely in this area?

Franco Marchesi: "I arrived here in the early 2000s by choice and not by default. My last wife wanted to come to the area for Windsurf. At first I kept working on San Francisco for a while, I was regularly round trips by plane. I came here by always fun to see my family and to restore what was to become my Winery.

In the early 2000s there were here two Wineries, today there are over 30! When I bought here in 2004, in Hood River, it was an old orchard (apple) abandoned extending over 5 acres. I quickly started to work the soil to prepare the vineyard to plant vines and to restore the buildings to accommodate productive tools. In 2004 I planted my first vines here (Barbera). When I started I was getting help and advice from friends Italian winemakers.

I was doing all this weekend when I got to go. Although I started this business as a hobby I soon decided to devote

"I arrived in 1977 in the United States. I was born in Borgosesia (Piedmont) but I quickly left Italy to find work in the UK. I had the opportunity to work on a Norwegian cruise ship that cruised the entire globe with base in San Francisco. I learned the sommelier profession on the ship at the time it was easier. Through this position I was able to travel, discover vineyards, wines and I fell in love with the world of wine. I also learned a lot by myself as a wine merchant.

After more than twenty years in San Francisco I went to settle in the Columbia Gorge (Oregon). Here latitude is exactly the same as in my city of birth. The climate, the terroir and soil are very similar to those of Piedmont. I fell in love with this region and its fantastic views."

V.d.V.: Why did you choose to produce wines made from Italian varietals?

F.M.: "I do something for pleasure and nobody else does. Italian varieties are my passion and I was convinced that they could perfectly match the terroir. I especially like how they glisten. Italy and its wines are my passion and my roots. My grandfather Achille was wine-maker in Piedmont.

First I wanted to make wines for me, the wines I like. Then I have produced just for my friends and for my clients. Production has grown gradually. Today I produce on average 4000 cases per year."

V.d.V.: Why did not have chose to create a vineyard in Italy?

F.M.: "It's too complicated especially in these times of crisis. There are too many regulations in Europe in this field. What is nice here also is that everyone helps each other, there is a good atmosphere."

F.M.: "The originality of the wines. These are true wine that is expected / the characteristics of the grape varieties. I wanted to make unique wines and not fall into the facility as much. There is a climate and unique terroir here, we must adapt and not produce commercial varieties."

From a personal point of view I would say that the density, fat and silky material are markers that identify the wines of Marchesi Winery.

V.d.V.: Do you have plans for Marchesi Winery?

CHAMPAGNE BILLECART-SALMON

Two centuries of savoir-faire, rigor and passion for Champagne

The Billecart-Salmon Champagne House is family-owned and established in 1818 by Nicolas François Billecart and Elisabeth Salmon. Since then each generation works with passion to perpetuate the motto of the house Optimize quality, strive for excellence!. The Billecart-Salmon Champagne house produces 10 different cuvées.

I think one of the most beautiful proofs of recognition of our work is that it is common for local winemakers to come spontaneously to offer us their grapes."

VertdeVin: Where does the name of Billecart-Salmon come from ?

F.D.: "When building the house in 1818, the founders Nicolas François Billecart and Elisabeth Salmon chose to juxtapose their two surnames. After all this is a family business!"

VertdeVin: What is the signature of Billecart-Salmon Champagne?

Christine Barbe: "What characterizes our Champagne is delicate perfumes. Not scents. These flavors are very, very pronounced. Everything is in delicacy. Also found in our

Apart from the wines of Billecart-Salmon is also known for its famous French garden designed in 1926 by Charles Roland-Billecart.

François Domi: "Currently it operates on 95 hectares as well as 60 hectares (Mareuil, Ajy...) which was brought by the Frey Company.

© Billecart Salmon

Champagne is a little freshness in the finish and an elegant but not heavy overhead structure.

The grandfather of François Roland-Billecart was a brewer. At that time (1960') in Champagne no one thought to make fermentation at cold temperatures however it was common for the manufacture of beer. Mr Billecart, intrigued by the cold fermentations conducted trials. He realized that cold fermentation led to good things. It worked better, better for less powerful champagnes with more finesse, more elegant and more delicate flavors. Today it is fermented at 13°c.

We also work a lot on the use of the barrel. At first when I started working on the barrel project we used only fifty barrels. Today there are over 400. They are used for the three grapes but primarily for the Grands Blancs and for Pinots Noirs."

Personally I would say that what characterizes the Champagne Billecart-Salmon is the delicate aromas and champagne finish. The length on the palate, the finesse and creaminess and excitement of the bubbles and the excitement are also important markers of these champagnes.

V.d.V.: If you had to describe it what is Champagne to you?

F.D.: "First, I'm a technician. Champagne

for me it's a lifestyle, a festive product to celebrate happy events. This is a food friendly wine.

In Paris our Champagnes are served in various gourmet restaurants such as L'Arpège (Alain Passard). He prepares dishes that blend perfectly with Champagne Billecart-Salmon!

Champagne is the art of living, the art of French gastronomy. There is a little ostentatious side of Champagne in the picture but it is a product of art and gastronomy."

V.d.V.: Do you have any particular future projects ?

F.D.: "For now I remain Cellar Master, but I would like to start soon to hand over (step by step) to my successor. I should be retired but I would stay still consultant to the house wines to retain the signature / the Billecart-Salmon frame."

Side Anecdote

"We did a lot of research on the properties / qualities of the liquor (wine + cane sugar). At first I did not think too that cold fermentation could have such an influence on the final quality of the champagne but the test results were incredible and convinced me!

If one day you have the chance to visit the Billecart-Salmon cellars you will see at the entrance to the wine room a large statue of the God Bacchus. «It is thanks to him that we make good wines!"

"My father had vineyards but since there are seven children in the family the vineyard was not enough for everyone to live off of.

The wine is a late vocation for me. The passion came to me through the village oenologist who gave me the wine virus. After that I studied at the Faculty of Oenology Reims then I started to looking for a job. In my mind I wanted to work only in two regions, Champagne or Bordeaux!

I started working in a wine laboratory (my first passion) and then at Charles Heidsieck. My lab experience was very interesting and educational. I saw what to do and what to avoid. At the time we could find a job easily in the vineyard. After some time I changed to come to work at Billecart-Salmon. I'm arrived at Billecart in September 1985. I started to work with Jean Roland-Billecart (father of François, the present CEO of the company). My first vintage vinified here was the 1985. Currently we produce ten qualities of Champagne and including a 100% Pinot Noir (old vines planted in 1964). This is the Clos St Hilaire. It must be produced, depending on the year, between 3,000 and 4,000 bottles.

The Cellar Master position is a beautiful job. I enjoy oenology, creating wine. It is a beautiful discipline, you can taste the terroir!"

CHAMPAGNE PIERRE LAUNAY

The Pierre Launay Champagne House is a family property founded in 1967 by Pierre Launay. It is located at Barbonne-Fayel in the Sézannais, in the south of the Côte des Blancs. The vineyard currently covers 14 hectares divided between Barbonne Fayel, Broys and Loches-sur-Ource (Côte des Bar).

The Launay family came to Barbonne-Fayel in 1920. In the 60's viticulture around the village came back into fashion spurred in particular by many Epernay wine-makers who were looking for land to plant. Following the phylloxera crisis many farmers in the region, like Pierre Launay's father, did not want to hear about vines. He was a grain farmer and a breeder.

In 1967 when Pierre Launay announced that he wanted to plant vines on the family estate, his father did not believe in his project. He agreed to cede some land but refused to help in the work of the vines, so the son learned the trade from the village elder. Over the years he found other plots to buy or to rent.

In 1968 he bought the first straddle tractor in the village. Subsequently many winemakers of the region came to ask him to work for them with this machine. He was a pioneer in many things, in 1972 he acquired his first press.

In 1973 he began his first vintage bottled.

Anecdote side

La Maison Pierre Launay, combined with 11 other producers based on the Coteaux du Sézannais created in 2014 the association «Secraie».

The name of this association is born from a play on words between «Secret» (it will be soon...) and «chalk» important component of Local Sézannais soil.

«We created this association to promote our wines and our terroirs that produce a racy Chardonnay, different from those found on the Côte des Blancs.»

"I was born here but I have not always worked on the family property. For a long time I was attracted to another sector : IT. I studied computer science and I worked in this sector for some large companies such as TFI (French TV Channel). In 2005, after several years in Paris I realized that I was missing the family property. So I decided to return there to work. I learned the trade on the job thanks to the advice of my brothers, my father and by reading. Currently I am working on the property with my two brothers. I take care of all the marketing part, exporting and administrative work. Jerome (one of my brothers) manages the vines and Lionel (the second brother) manages pressings and wine-making."

VertdeVin: If you had to describe your passion for Champagne in a few words, what would you say?

Laurent Launay: "First of all the word 'passion' although initially I was not into this work. I would also say it is a 'festive product'. This is the image of Champagne!"

V.d.V.: What is the notable about Champagne Pierre Launay? What is special about your wines?

“We are interested in the sustainable viticulture guidelines set up by the Union of Champagne wines. It would be certified because here we always practice_ what is recommended. We take care of our soil, biodiversity and people who work here. We do not use chemical fertilizers but only organic fertilizers. Our plots are 50% grass. their correct values. Each vintage should have its own. In principle they are not very heavy. On average it is 8 grams/ liter with some vintages at 7/6 gr:

The soil is also an important concept for us. Our Champagne reflect its terroir (mainly limestone chalk and some clays).

At harvest time we wait for the correct sugars. But it is not too favorable to push ripeness. It is preferred to harvest at 9.5 percent potential alcohol to keep good acidity. We want our Champagnes have a nice acid frame, ensuring good structure and good aging potential.”

CHAMPAGNE MICHEL GONET

The Michel Gonet Champagne House is a family property founded in 1802 by Charles Gonet. The Gonet family has been present in the wine world since the Middle Ages. Even then the Gonets exercised trading activity / wine brokerage in the Beaujolais region. In the middle of the fifteenth century the family arrived in Champagne and specifically on the white coast where they settled as farmers. However it was not until 1802 that the champagne house was founded.

At first it was small family property which got bigger and bigger with weddings and acquisition opportunities.

Michel Gonet, grandson of Charles Gonet did much to increase the family estate including the purchase of many plots and Château de Vindey in 1976. In 1973 he built the modern cellars in Avize. Thanks to him the property currently covers 37 hectares divided between the Côte des Blancs: Mesnil sur Oger, the slopes of Sézanne: Vindey those of Troyes Mongueux and the Bar sur Aube: Fravaux.

In 1986 the Gonet family, wishing to expand their range and produce wines of Bordeaux bought the Château Lesparre.

Today Michel Gonet vineyards are managed by his three children, Charles-Henri Gonet Frédéric and Sophie. Today is nine properties in Bordeaux: Château d'Eck (Pessac-Léognan), Château Haut Bacalan (Pessac- Léognan), Chateau Haut L'Evêque (Pessac-Léognan), Château Saint-Eugène (Pessac Léognan), Château Lesparre (Graves de Vayres & Bordeaux Supérieur), Château

Lathibaude (Graves de Vayres & Bordeaux Supérieur), Château Haut-Brana (Pessac-Léognan), Château La Rose Videau (Graves de Vayres & Bordeaux Supérieur) and Château des Bordes (Graves de Vayres & Bordeaux Supérieur).

Focus on Sophie Gonet, owner of the House of Champagne Michel Gonet

"I was born here, in Champagne, but I started my professional career in international trade. I have an adventurous character of traveler. I need new experiences however I also need a base, a place to return to and that's here. I went to work in South America in 1982. I returned to France in 1992 because I was pregnant and I would rather live out my pregnancy here with my parents. Thus I became involved in the family business. My father found that I was getting a little too 'South American' and so decided to acquire a property in Bordeaux and get me involved in the management of family property in 1986. I have two brothers; Charles-Henri and Frederick. In general we can say that they care for the Bordelaises properties I of Champagne."

VertdeVin: Where does the name of the property come from? Who is Michel Gonet?

Sophie Gonet: "It's my father's name, a seventh generation winemaker line working in the Côte des Blancs since 1802. The ancestors were farmers in Bannes south of the Côte des Blancs and winemakers in Vertus, then a generation is based in Le Mesnil sur Oger and Michel stood at Avize in 1962."

V.d.V.: If you had to describe what Champagne is to you in a few words, what would you say?

S.G.: "My life, my pleasure and my goal. My goal is to make Champagne that is good, even very good, but if it gives me pleasure to me alone it has no interest."

We need the Champagne that gives pleasure to friends, customers and consumers while making me enjoy myself. It is a gay, festive product, a product to be shared among friends. It also conveys what I receive from my family, my children and my friends, as customers become friends, it's a bit of us that we offer them in a glass of champagne. Each vintage is a little my 'baby'."

V.d.V.: What allows one to recognize Champagne Michel Gonet in a blind tasting?

S.G.: "I have a very specific idea of what a champagne should be. This must be a wine that gives pleasure with its character, its personality, its terroir and ageing. There must be a harmony, good balance and not be aggressive (a good balance between acidity, bitterness, sugar). It's not necessarily easy to describe but I know what I want, what I expect of a Champagne. Even though it's a fun time above all.

For diversity and expression of terroir we created white Champagne vintages by the white coast"

V.d.V.: Do you have plans for the Maison Michel Gonet?

S.G.: "Yes ! We already have a nice wine tourism offer in Epernay at 37 Avenue de Champagne in Avize in our cellars, but I'd like to add a restaurant. My goal is to advocate for dishes that pair with my Champagnes. This is a short / medium-term project because I have the license. All I need is the chef."

Thanks to Sophie, Charles-Henri Gonet and Michel for their warm welcome.

Side story

My great-grandfather Charles Gonet was in the 1914 war as a nurse-medic in Verdun. During that war he developed a friendship with a coachbuilder from Champagne in Epernay De-launais Belleville Father said. A few weeks after the birth of my father in January 1935 that friend came to congratulate Charles for his first little son. Unfortunately the child was dying and the family was not optimistic for the future, due to dysphagia (blockage of the esophagus). The friend who was particularly appreciative of champagne offered a drink anyway and made the child drink because he could not die without having tasted. Finally the divine drink solved my father's digestion problem by unblocking the esophagus. Since then the friend always reminded him that it was thanks to him that he was alive. His parents had not even had the idea of giving him champagne at birth! He and Champagne had saved my father!

CHAMPAGNE
Pierre Launay
à Barbonne-Fayel

— Le domaine Pierre Launay s'étend sur 14 ha dans le Sud de la Champagne sur le terroir de la Côte de Sézanne. Le domaine a été créé par Pierre Launay en 1967 et repris 40 ans plus tard par ses trois fils, qui se partagent l'activité en complémentarité et harmonie.

Vignerons indépendants, ils sont animés d'une volonté de produire des vins de très haute qualité dans le respect de la nature du terroir et de l'environnement.

De leur parfaite connaissance du terroir, associée à une expression naturelle du Chardonnay est née la cuvée Blanc de Blancs Millésime 2008 Extra-Brut (100% Chardonnay), fleuron de la maison. Cette cuvée qui traduit l'équilibre, la maturité et l'excellence, présente au nez des notes de fleurs blanches et d'agrumes, et en bouche une fraîcheur d'une grande longueur et amplitude dominée par une structure minérale voire saline.
